The mission and purpose of AFA is promote the advancement of aviculture through educational programs that enable better husbandry, management, and living conditions for exotic birds; to promote avian research and conservation of exotic birds; to keep our members aware of legislative issues that affect aviculture and aviculturists, and to keep legislators aware of the need for fair and equitable regulations.

The goal of AFA is to insure long-term, self-sustaining populations of exotic birds both in captivity and in the wild.

About the AFA ...

The American Federation of Aviculture (AFA) is a 501 (c)(3) nonprofit national organization established in 1974, whose purpose is to represent all aspects of aviculture and educate the public about keeping and breeding birds in captivity.

AFA has a membership consisting of bird breeders, pet bird owners, conservationists, avian veterinarians, pet/bird store owners, bird product manufacturers & distributors, show exhibitors, and other people interested in the future of aviculture.

AFA believes holders of exotic birds need to be aware of the special needs of the species they hold, their conservation status, up-to-date research findings enhancing the well-being of birds, and the state and federal regulations pertaining to exotic birds.

AFA has been identified as the nation’s grass roots organization of bird breeders by the U.S. Congress’s Office of Technology and Assessment.
