Our main focus is on education. In addition to the award-winning quarterly journal, the AFA Watchbird, we offer education classes: Fundamentals of Aviculture (FOA) courses. The self-paced, online courses have been awarded continuing education credits for veterinarians and vet technicians, but are designed for anyone with a bird.

Yahoo chat list where members can ask questions about their pet birds. Our members and experts have many years of experience to draw upon.

Our annual Conventions feature top speakers from around the world bringing you information on pet birds, breeding, behavior, enrichment, health issues, and more.

Wild bird conservation is supported through our own AFA Conservation committee. Projects have been funded for endangered species in many countries.

AFA Traceable Leg Bands can now be found on tens of thousands of captive bred birds in the United States. We offer custom designs and colors and a registry for lost birds.

Bringing the community together. Whether you are a pet owner, breeder, rescue owner, food manufacturer, cage company, toy company, or wildlife artist, you will find a friend in the AFA.
